

"Meet Me in Albuquerque" at the Great New Mexico State Fair; Everybody Will Be There Monday

CITY EDITION

ALBUQUERQUE MORNING JOURNAL.

CITY EDITION

SEVENTH YEAR

VOL. XII No. 86

Thirty-eight Pages

Albuquerque, New Mexico, Sunday, September 24, 1916

Thirty-eight Pages

Daily by Carrier or Mail, 75¢
A Month, Single Copies, 5¢

REVISE PROGRAM OF ADDRESSES AT THE STATE FAIR AT LAST MOMENT

Senator Burton's illness of a few days ago delays him so that he will not be at Exposition until Friday.

DEMOCRATS SUBSTITUTE A. A. JONES FOR OWEN

Judge D. D. Woodmansee, of Cincinnati, to Arrive Tonight; Senatorial Candidate Tomorrow Morning.

ALLUMETTE, N. M., September 24, 1916.—The state fair commission wishes to state to the people of New Mexico that the substitution of speakers made for the Political Day exercises at the state fair this year was not made at its instance, but is made than satisfactory to it.

The advertising that one fair commissioners gave the speakers named at first was given in good faith and because these names were given to the state central committee as their selections. (Signed)

NEW MEXICO STATE FAIR COMMISSION
By W. P. SOUTHBARD,
President.

Announcement was made from the state fair headquarters in old Albuquerque and from the republican and democratic headquarters in Santa Fe, almost at the same moment that the program of speakers at the state fair tomorrow—Political Day—had been revised like the republicans revise the tariff upward.

Instead of former C. S. Senator Theodore C. Bissell of Ohio, George F. D. Woodmansee, of Cincinnati, is to appear for the republicans. Instead of Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, A. A. Jones, of this state, is to speak.

The change meets with the highest approval of state fair commissioners, political leaders and others who were apprised of it last night. The reasons for the substitutions at this late date vary. Senator Burton, however, is to appear in Albuquerque Friday night. He was prevented from fulfilling his engagement by a slight illness last week, which so disarranged his schedule that it was impossible for him to reach this city before Friday.

Woodmansee a Real Star.

In order to compensate the state fair and the local politicians who had counted on the appearance of Senator Burton for the inconvenience of the substitution, the republican national committee named as its substitute on the platform to star speaker, Judge Woodmansee, former chief justice of the supreme court of Ohio and known as Ohio's best speaker.

Judge Woodmansee says the telegraphic advice from Mr. Madison of the national committee, "He is the best speaker the republicans have at their command." He is a very popular orator.

Judge Woodmansee is a candidate for the senatorship in his own state this fall, which is mentioned that he makes the long trip to New Mexico may be appreciated properly.

The appointment of A. A. Jones, democratic candidate for the senatorship in New Mexico, is too well known in the state to need much of an introduction, says the advice from the democratic committee. "We are sure that he will prove at least as attractive as a speaker as any other man we could name."

Democrats Are Rejoicing.

The local democratic leaders last night rejoiced both long and loudly that Mr. Jones was to appear in Albuquerque. A committee of boosters has been named to arrange for a suitable reception for him, while the republican committee already named to meet Senator Burton will meet Judge Woodmansee and welcome him to New Mexico. Except for the change in speakers, every arrangement will be carried through exactly as already outlined.

The Woodrow Wilson campaign club of Albuquerque has named the following committee to meet Mr. Jones:

Neill G. Field, chairman, W. S. Hopewell, Major Henry Westcott, Andres Bonito, P. F. McNamee and Clyde Tingley. Mr. Field will introduce the senatorial candidate at the fair grounds, where he takes his place on the platform before the grandstand. This committee also will head his escort to the fair.

An impression has got about that the two speakers were to meet in joint debate. It was stated at the fair last night, and this is desired to correct. The appearance of the two speakers will not be a debate. Entertainment events will intervene between the two addresses, both of which are to be preceded by the

THE WEATHER

THE WEATHER FORECAST.
Albuquerque, N. M., Sunday, September 24, 1916.

LOCAL WEATHER REPORT.
For twenty-four hours ending at 6 p.m. yesterday.

Maximum temperature at desert minimum, 72°, roads, 68°; temperature at 6 p.m., 72°; windless, humidity, heat index, 80°; pressure, 30.02; barometer, 30.02.

Wind blowing from the southwest at 10 miles per hour.

Clouds, scattered, thin, broken.

Humidity, 70%.

Clouds, scattered, thin, broken.